Title: Report on the workshop titled “Crafting Effective Program and Course Outcomes”

Date: February 17, 2024

Time: 10:00 AM onwards

Organizers: RD and SH National College in association with IQAC

Facilitators: Dr. Sybil Thomas and Dr. Gulshan Shaikh

On February 17, 2024, RD and SH National College, in collaboration with the Internal Quality Assurance Cell (IQAC), organized a workshop titled "Crafting Effective Program and Course Outcomes." The workshop was aimed at degree college teachers, both aided and unaided, to enhance their understanding and proficiency in designing robust program and course outcomes.

Overview:

The workshop commenced at 10:00 AM and began with an introduction to the significance of well-defined program and course outcomes in academic settings. Dr. Sybil Thomas and Dr. Gulshan Shaikh, esteemed facilitators for the workshop, led the session.

Highlights of the workshop-

1. Understanding Outcome-Based Education (OBE): The facilitators provided an overview of Outcome-Based Education (OBE) principles, emphasizing the importance of aligning educational objectives with desired learning outcomes.
2. Importance of Program and Course Outcomes: Participants gained insights into the role of program and course outcomes in curriculum development, assessment, and overall student learning experience.
3. Effective Strategies for Crafting Outcomes: Dr. Thomas and Dr. Shaikh shared practical strategies and frameworks for crafting clear, measurable, and achievable program and course outcomes using Bloom's Taxonomy. They provided examples and templates to guide participants through the process.

4. Alignment with Institutional Goals: The workshop highlighted the significance of aligning program and course outcomes with institutional goals, accreditation standards, and industry requirements to ensure relevance and quality in education delivery.

5. Assessment and Evaluation Techniques: Participants learned about various assessment and evaluation techniques tailored to measure the attainment of program and course outcomes effectively.

6. Interactive Sessions and Q&A: Throughout the workshop, interactive sessions and Q&A segments allowed participants to clarify doubts, share experiences, and engage in meaningful discussions with the facilitators and peers.

Conclusion:

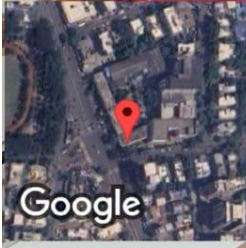

The workshop on "Crafting Effective Program and Course Outcomes" concluded successfully, equipping degree college teachers with practical knowledge and skills to enhance the quality and effectiveness of their academic programs. The insights gained from the workshop are expected to catalyze positive changes in curriculum design, teaching methodologies, and assessment practices, ultimately benefiting students and fostering academic excellence.

Overall, the event served as a valuable platform for professional development and collaboration among educators, paving the way for continuous improvement in higher education delivery.
