Ek Prithvi - Maharashtra
Letter of Understanding for College Partnerships

To whomsoever it may concern,

Greetings from WWF-India!

This is a letter of understanding between:

WWF-India Maharashtra State Office, situated at C/o Godrej & Boyce Mfg. Co. Ltd., Lalbaug, Parel, Mumbai - 12 and

R. D. National & S. W. A. Science College
Bandra, Mumbai - 50.

Conservation Leadership through Environmental Education

Ek Prithvi - Maharashtra is an environmental education programme developed by WWF-India that aims to promote environmental education and bridge the current environmental education gap in Mumbai. The programme employs a bottom-up approach wherein students learn from other students and then continue to disseminate knowledge among their peers. Ek Prithvi is designed to provide a comprehensible, relevant and practicable environmental education to students from all walks of life through highly interactive and activity-based learning sessions. These sessions will help students develop a holistic understanding of the environmental issues prevalent in Maharashtra and the remediation strategies for the same. More importantly, through the various classroom activities and take-home activities designed for Ek Prithvi, students will actually put into action the remediation methods that they have learned. Ek Prithvi will thus inculcate a sense of ownership, responsibility and stewardship for nature among the city's youth.

Programme Structure

WWF-India's Maharashtra State Office (MSO) will launch Ek Prithvi in 25 English medium municipal schools in Mumbai during the 2017-2018 academic year. The programme is aimed at raising environmental awareness among municipal school students from grades 6 to 9.

To implement Ek Prithvi, your institute will be paired with one or more proximal municipal (BMC) schools and your participating degree college students will be assigned to teach a particular class from grade 6 to 9 at a paired municipal school. Two degree college students will be assigned to teach each class. Once assigned to teach a class, your students will visit their assigned class once weekly to conduct teaching sessions. Depending on the number of available students at your institute we can pair your institute with one or more proximal municipal schools.

Uniqueness of the Programme

This is a skill-based and action-oriented programme. It takes learning beyond the textbook and focuses on attitudinal and behavioural changes among students, teachers and communities. Moreover, the project works on creating differences in the students' environment that are tangible and measurable. The association of your institute and its students in this novel initiative will help raise environmental awareness and consciousness among Mumbai's youth.

WWF-India Maharashtra State Office looks forward to associating with your institute for Ek Prithvi.

Shilonda trail –Two groups direct observation method for nature trail at selected path. Binoculars and Camera used for observation and photography. Prof Incharge Mrs Lata S, Dr Lalana K, Mr Manoj K & Mr Nikhil Disoria, Reference books used Bird books by Grimmit, Dr Salim Ali, Butterflies – Issac Khimkar pocket books & charts for birds, insects and butterflies –SGNP Summation of faunal diversity was discussed such as Butterflies like Common Emigrant, Oakleaf, Orange tip, Plaintiger, Blue wanderer, Psyche, Common grass yellow, Sailor, Insects-Carpenter bee, Wasp, Pagoda ant with its nest, Harvester ant with its nest, Termitaria of termites, Tunnel Spider, Giant wood spider, Birds sighted- Golden Oriole, White bellied Drongo, Ashy Drongo. Puple Rumped Sunbirds, Flowerpecker, Warblers, Black Kite, Common Mynna, Raven, Crow Pheasant. Spotted deer Chitals herd, Hanuman Langur & Squirrels.

Workshop on Line Transect & Quadrant method of Population density. When animal community is distributed over a large area the population can be surveyed at different times to get an idea about seasonal variation in community. By using this method various diversity indices like index of Dominance, index of Frequency, Rarity index, Shannon index & index of Species Diversity can be calculated. Mr Nikit Surve gave an insight to the actual method in the fields for these studies. Selection of the area, identify the animals and their scientific names, record the total number of species and number of animals under each species in an observation table (provided by the resource person). This was activity based workshop, where the students were divided into two groups, with one resource person and students volunteers per team along with two faculty member per group. Students did population density of Chitals and Redcotton Silk tree in the study area and recorded their observation in the Sheet provided to them by both the methods.

GPS Tracking -Workshop on GPS tracking was practically studied under the abled guidance of Mr Nikit Surve & Mr Omkar Patil. Its application in forest area where there is no network was emphasized and practiced by the students. Significance of Pugmarks, Scratch marks on tree barks, pheromones in urine and feces of animals as means of animal communication was well explained by the resource persons.

Guest Lecture on “Living with Leopard in urban area SGNP” by Mr Nikit Surve was a treat for all the beneficiaries’ as it was with a powerpoint and covered various aspects of the FYBSC and SYBSC curriculum w.r.t.

Ethology, Ecology, Evolution, Biodiversity & Conservation(2.30pm to 3.40pm)

Hands On Training on Camera trapping (4pm to 7pm) –we proceeded for setting up the camera at three different sites 1) Shilonda trail 2) Upper Kanheri 3) Phansacha Pani. Students had privilege to actually set the cameras at various area and actually placing of these cameras at particular height from the ground level. They made study of the signs and marks for probability to capture the leopard image along the chosen path under the guidance of Resource persons and their volunteers.

2nd Guest lecture by Mr Nikit Surve on “Man vs Wild life Conflict in Mumbai city” & also on Camera trapping as wild life research tool(8pm to 9pm). We were enlightened by some of the Ethological aspects of some wild animals like Leopard, Tiger, Chital, Barking Deer, Elephants, Sloth Bear, Hanuman Langur, Birds- King Fisher, Eagle Paradise Flycatcher, Drongo etc. Prof Nikhil Disoria also shared his own experiences on wild animals along with one of our student Mr Dheeraj Chavan Summer camp stay in SGNP last year. Very Informative session on behavior of animals like aggressive Elephants, & Bear, Alarm calls of Deer & Macque monkeys and Shyness of Leopards were discussed.

Star Gazing session was conducted by Prof Manoj Kadam (10pm to 11.30pm). Students helped to assemble the Telescope and were informed about the Constellation and Greek Mythology which plays important role in understanding various celestial bodies of our Universe.

Day Two 31/01/2020

Upper Kanheri morning nature trail (6.30am to 9.00am) showed following faunal diversity recored was as follows: Butterflies- Common crow, common Emigrant, Blue tiger, Stripped tiger, Plain tiger, Glassy tiger, Wanderer, Chocolate pansy, Grass yellow, Common Mormon, Greater orange tip, Psyche butterfly, Oak leaf butterfly, matting of Damselfly, Dragon fly, harvester ants and its nests, pagoda ants nests.

Mammals- Rhesus macaque, Bonnet macaque, Sambar deer, Spotted deer herds, hooves marks of Spotted deer, wild Boar, fecal droppings of wild Hare, Scats of leopard, Pug mark of Leopard, Urine of Leopard smelling like basmathi rice(pheromones chemical signal)

Retrival of cameras setup at different sites for data analysis.

Guest lecture on data analysis of camera traps along with estimation of Leopard population based on Captured, Marked and Recaptured method.(10.30am to 12.50pm) Three teams under the expertise of Mr Nikit Surve, Mr Omkar Patil & Mr Jayesh Vishwakarma scrutised the camera for leopard images. Not only leopards but one of the camera had captured a wild Boar along the chosen path. It was the most rewarding session.
